Does every patient need a drug?
Does every red eye have a bug?
And every time you see a bump,
do you feel an urge to remove the lump?

Because in my unwritten book,
'WNL' means we never look!
While 'NAD' as a patient's pun,
means nothing actually done!

Please avoid short forms like the plague;
they mean little, are pretty vague.
And if you've used a company's dough,
have the courage to publicly show.

Often hypertension or serum level is a number;
treating just it, is often a blunder.
Even managing the disease isn't your aim,
but caring for the patient should be the game!

A touch, a wink or just a smile,
does more than medicines by a mile,
and you do sometimes get to see that the appropriate prescription is NAT!
